Description

The Chatham House Internship offers a unique opportunity for individuals passionate about international affairs to gain hands-on experience at one of the world's leading think tanks. This program is designed to foster the development of future leaders by providing valuable exposure to global policy research and analysis in a dynamic and supportive environment. Interns will have the chance to work alongside experienced researchers and policy experts, contributing to projects that influence international decision-making.

Responsibilities

- Conducting comprehensive research on international relations topics and current global issues.
- Assisting in the preparation of reports, briefs, and presentations for diverse audiences.
- Supporting the organization of events, workshops, and seminars, including logistical planning and content development.
- Engaging in collaborative projects with team members across various research programs.
- Maintaining databases and tracking media coverage relevant to Chatham House's work.

Qualifications

- Current enrollment in or recent completion of a degree in international relations, political science, economics, or a related field.
- Strong analytical and research skills, with attention to detail.
- Excellent written and verbal communication abilities.
- Demonstrated interest in global affairs and policy research.
- Proficiency in Microsoft Office Suite and familiarity with research databases.

Job Benefits

- Gain practical experience in a prestigious international think tank setting.
- Access to a wide network of professionals and experts in global policy.
 - Opportunity to attend exclusive events and discussions hosted by Chatham House.
 - Development of skills that are highly valued in academia, government, and the private sector.
 - A supportive learning environment with mentorship from experienced professionals.

Experience

Candidates with previous internship experience in research, policy analysis, or related fields will find this role particularly beneficial. However, it is open to all individuals who demonstrate a keen interest and potential in international affairs.

Skills

- Strong research and analytical capabilities.
